

Our first assignment was to learn to use the water jet by designing snowflakes. The snowflakes were to measure two inches on a side and mimic patterns found in nature as closely as possible.

Here is Greg's snowflake cut in brass and polycarbonate:

MIT OpenCourseWare
<http://ocw.mit.edu>

EC.S02 Water Jet Technologies
Spring 2005

For information about citing these materials or our Terms of Use, visit: <http://ocw.mit.edu/terms>.